About David P. Langford

In 1986, David Langford became the first classroom teacher to apply Quality Learning philosophy, theory, tools and processes to improve student learning.

Over the past 20 years, David has traveled extensively, training colleagues in K-12 school systems, the military, universities, colleges, pre-schools and business in how to identify systemic problems and create quality solutions that improve learning. He has presented his trademark 4-Day Quality Learning Seminar over 300 times to more than 30,000 educators in the United States. David’s seminar has successfully impacted over 5,000 educators and 1000 schools in Australia. He has also trained colleagues in Canada, Europe, Asia and South America in Quality Learning processes.

David Langford is a graduate of Montana State University Billings with a B.S. in Education K-12 and holds a Masters Degree in Educational Administration and Supervision from Arizona State University. He is a consultant, trainer, educator, international speaker and writer focusing his efforts on improving the quality of learning and learning systems. David Langford is co-author of Orchestrating Learning with Quality, and author of Tool Time for Business, Tool Time for Education, Tool Time for Healthcare and the creator of nine quality improvement tools and other learning materials.

“The Langford training is a transformational way of thinking that will positively affect new generations of students, the learning environment in today’s schools, and the success of all stakeholders.”
– Brent Odom, Administrator

Caution: You are about to dramatically change your view of learning!

“I attended one of your four-day workshops in Lansing years ago, and I just wanted to let you know that I have been using the tools with success ever since then. I have to admit that it was one of the few workshops that has impacted me in a way that changed my leadership practices in the two international schools that I have been principal of. When I attended, I was the Secondary Principal at Academia Cotopaxi in Quito, Ecuador. I'm now the MS/HS Principal at Mont’Kiara International School in Kuala, Malaysia. I hope that our paths cross again in the future.”
– R. Blair Peterson, Ed.D.
